Questions Asked in "Home Owners" Letter Are Answered By Mattoon Settlement Worker

Editor, Ocean Beach News,
Ocean Beach, California.

I have read with interest a letter which appeared in the Ocean Beach News of October 18, 1935, signed "Ocean Beach Home Owner."

As this letter set forth one side of a controversial question I assume that a sense of fair play as well as desire to give your readers as much information as you can on any subject the publication in The Ocean Beach News of this letter.

The subject of a letter written by "Ocean Beach Home Owner" and of my letter is set forth in full in his opening paragraph:

"I think the voters of San Diego county who are all taxpayers, directly or indirectly, should be very careful about being influenced too much by the propaganda that is being spread all over the county in favor of the Mattoon Settlement Bonds. Certainly here is a subject which should overshadow in the minds of all San Diego county taxpayers, every other subject, nor can it be set aside by a flippant and uninformed opposition."

I think, as does your correspondent, that voters all over the county should be careful about the propaganda that is being spread over the county in favor of the Mattoon Settlement Bonds. Certainly here is a subject which should overshadow in the minds of all San Diego county taxpayers, every other subject, nor can it be set aside by a flippant and uninformed opposition.

Let me quote your correspondent's first question:

"First, who is putting up the money for all this propaganda? Can it be that the bondholders are trying to unload bad investments on to the taxpayers of San Diego county? Have you ever heard of that being done before in San Diego? And the only way to do it, is just by the kind of propaganda, saying 'it is going to reduce taxes, etc.' I have never seen taxes reduced by voting bonds yet."

Because this question is so easy to ask, and because those who ask it always believe they are doing some sort of damage by it, it is always the first one in any public matter, and it always takes the same answer—the answer which your correspondent had in mind when he propounded it. The money that is carrying on the campaign for the bond issue of October 29 is being supplied, naturally, by the people who are interested in the success of the bonds. Disregarding your correspondent's assumption as to who those people are, let me say that the people who are supplying the money for this campaign for the October 29 bonds are property owners and taxpayers throughout the county who have seen and understood the fact that unless the blight of these bonds is removed they are going to default in their taxes and lose what is theirs. Most of them are men and women who are not in Mattoon Act districts, but see the handwriting on the wall—notice of a tax load on their shoulders too heavy to carry if the Mattoon Act is left to impose the taxes of 56 distressed districts on the burden that already is breaking the backs of solvent taxpayers.

Bondholders are not trying to unload bad investments onto the taxpayers of San Diego county, as your correspondent says. Holders of Mattoon Act bonds have not been consulted about this proposed bond issue. As all bondholders happen to be human beings, they would take in this campaign only one stand—that their bad investments should be made a good investment, and be made a good investment in full. It is absurd to insinuate that any man will campaign to give himself a loss. Your correspondent should have thought of this before he wrote the paragraph I have quoted.

Let me quote, now, your correspondent's next paragraph:

"This county was flooded by propagandists when they were putting the Mattoon Bonds over the districts several years ago. The people in the proposed districts were so influenced by propaganda, put out by the paving contractors, and bond buyers, that they wouldn't listen to any opposition at any of their public meetings. The result was, those who were opposed to it were intimidated so that they stayed away from the meetings."

These statements are not true. It is admitted generally throughout California that the Mattoon Act was conceived and made into law in good faith and that the evils which were inherent in it were not seen by the author of the act or by anyone else. On the other hand, it is true that unscrupulous attorneys and engineers saw in the act an opportunity for quick promotion and quick profits. These men did promote the act, and they did influence property owners to assume obligations under that act. Every taxpayer agrees to this fact.

To say that bond buyers had anything to do with these promotions cannot be true, for the reason that bond buyers enter the picture only after the bonds are on the market. To continue this answer I must quote your correspondent's next paragraph.

"Of course all the property owners in these Mattoon districts are in favor of the bond issue, we can't blame them. They get into a bad mess, and now they want the balance of the county to help them pay. Even we taxpayers that refused to allow the Mattoon plan to be used in our districts, such as Ocean Beach, Mission Beach and Point Loma, and who had our paving and other improvements done under the 1911 Act; we have either paid, or are paying on the 10 years plan. Incidentally if we don't pay we lose our property and a great many have lost it."

It is most certainly true that property owners in distressed Mattoon Act districts want to get out of the mess that they are in. They want to get out of it for the same reason that your correspondent would have if he were in danger of losing his property through such assessments as have been created in these districts. Your correspondent implies that property owners in Ocean Beach, Mission Beach and Point Loma were too smart to be hooked by propaganda for the Mattoon Act. Presuming that your correspondent is a resident of Ocean Beach, he may be reminded that a large section of Ocean Beach was propagandized into a paving deal at three times the necessary cost and that the late A. R. Sauer got these property owners of Ocean Beach out of their own mess after they had admitted that they were totally unable to help themselves. More than this, Mr. Sauer got them out of their mess at his own expenditure of time and money. There was no complaint from Ocean Beach when this happened to their benefit—may I remind your correspondent now that it always makes a difference when our own ox is gored. I may also say, referring to your correspondent's last sentence, that I cannot, nor can any right thinking man, look with complacency upon loss of property whether that loss occurs in Ocean Beach or in some distressed Mattoon Act district.

The next paragraph of your correspondent is too long to quote in full, but it refers generally to the question of assessments other than the Mattoon Act assessments which have caused property losses. Delinquencies in taxes or assessments are bitter things, no matter what causes them. If all delinquencies could be prevented much of the tax difficulties in this county would be cured. In this present instance we have an opportunity to wipe out the greatest source of delinquencies in the county—and the attempt to wipe out these delinquencies is being made primarily for the benefit of taxpayers outside the distressed districts for the plain, simple, logical and unanswerable reason that whenever one taxpayer defaults in his obligation the rest of us must pay his tax bills.

Let me quote another paragraph from your correspondent:

"Now in regard to these other districts, such as Valencia Park, Rosendo, the eastern part of Market and the Broadway extension and numerous other ones just east of the city limits. These districts are composed mostly of worthless property that has been subdivided by promoters, who bought it up at from $50 to $150 per acre. They put in all the improvements under the Mattoon Act. Then sold it to innocent purchasers at from $500 to $2000 per lot. They encouraged the County Assessor, thru the Tax Factors, to put fictitious values on the lots, so as to have a better market for the Mattoon bonds. In fact, I sometimes think they had a lot to do with bringing the Tax Factors into San Diego."

This paragraph is hung together so loosely that it is difficult to make a single answer to it. The important part in it is the statement that properties in these districts were sold by promoters to innocent purchasers. This fact—that these properties were sold to innocent purchasers—is the kernel of the rotten Mattoon Act nut. The campaign which is being put on for the bond issue of Oct. 29 is a bond issue to put these innocent purchasers of real estate back on the tax roll. This campaign is not concerned with the promoter or the bondholder—it is concerned wholly and selfishly with the taxpayer outside the distressed Mattoon Act districts. This campaign is a campaign to distribute the tax load evenly over all the properties in the county, so that each citizen will carry his just share of it and no citizen shall pay for his distressed neighbor. Certainly this primary and fundamental fact should cause your correspondent to forget the letter he wrote you and to vote for the bond issue that has been designed to lower his taxes.

I am going to quote the next paragraph only because of the fun there is in reading it. Here it is:

"Unfortunately in forming these districts a great many small ranch owners and other innocent property owners had their holdings included in the districts, a great many over their protests. I certainly sympathize with them, but in a way, as long as they don't want to sell or borrow money, which they probably couldn't do anyhow at the present time, they are better off than most other parts of San Diego, as they can't lose title to their property for street paving as can be done where the paving is assessed against each individual lot."

If distressed property owners in Mattoon Act districts can't lose their property thru failure to pay their assessments this is the first time that I or anybody else ever heard of it. If your correspondent could only see thru it, the one and only reason for this campaign is to keep these people from losing their properties so that the solvent taxpayer won't have to pay for them. Let me repeat this one fact is the sole foundation—the sole reason—for the bond issue which is proposed for October 29.

The reference to the Tax Factors is just one of those things which men sometimes put on paper when they are tired thinking.

Your correspondent, "Ocean Beach Home Owner," says that "probably" 98% of property in these districts is vacant lots. "Probably" your correspondent doesn't know what he is talking about. The vague generalities, the "probables" and the "maybes" scattered thruout his letter do not argue for his knowledge or for his sincerity. For his information let it be said that these distressed properties include homes, businesses, ranches and farms. One ranch in a distressed district produces more than $900,000 annually. This ranch will go delinquent this year, and the loss in school taxes alone in the school district in which this ranch is located will be more than $7,000. "Ocean Beach Home Owner" will probably understand that the school bonds are payable on the dot, and if the district does not make up the shortage, caused by delinquency, "Ocean Beach Home Owner" will have to pay his share of it with the rest of the county.

Your correspondent continues with the statement that there is no guarantee that bondholders will sell their bonds at the price fixed in the settlement program. His judgment and his experience should have impelled him to say that the real guar-

OCTOBER 22, 1935

Editor of The Ocean Beach News,
Ocean Beach, California.

Dear Sir:

Some good citizen wrote an excellent article against the Mattoon Bonds in last week's issue of your paper, and if I was not so familiar with the situation and its history I might be inclined to agree with him. All of the points he brought out can be answered to the satisfaction of any reasonable person. The pamphlet put out by the Mattoon Relief Committee, called "Horse Sense" and the talks over the radio this week give the explanation very definitely.

As some of you may recall, when I was first elected one of the planks in my platform was to stop these Mattoon Districts, and after two or three attempts I was successful.

On my second election I was pledged to help solve the problem. After several unsuccessful attempts on plans without funds it was realized that we must have money to buy up the bonds at a reduced rate before we could hope for success.

The Supervisors, through the District Attorney's office, and with the help of James Abbey, who is probably the best informed attorney in the State on this type of work, together with a citizens committee of substantial business men, have submitted a plan that will work. It is not perfect. Anybody can find fault with it, but it will solve the problem if the money is provided.

Many who do not reside in any of the improvement districts wonder how it affects them. "Am I my brother's keeper?" You certainly are in this case. If your brother in the improvement district cannot or does not pay his taxes, you must pay them for him, just as sure as death and taxes.

The Supreme Court of the United States' decision forces the Supervisors to pyramid taxes this year. The result will be that next year about ten per cent of the County's taxable property will be off the tax rolls, and the ninety per cent outside the districts will have to carry the entire load from now on.

Personally I pay heavy taxes and I do not wish to be compelled to pay their taxes to the extent of sixty or seventy dollars a year indefinitely. Ten dollars out of every one hundred dollars of taxes you pay goes to pay the taxes of your neighbor in the Mattoon Districts who does not pay.

There are many arguments pro and con and as usual the air is full of propaganda, but it finally simmers down to this—mistakes have been made; all the bad things said about the promoters of these districts may be true, but the condition still exists and must be remedied. You have a choice of two evils. We do not like Mr. Bond because he has cost us lots of money; he has abused his power on occasion, and he is in ill-repute. However this time he pledges to be good to us. We despise Mr. Mattoon Act because he has done all of these bad things that the other candidate has done and more. He has forced many people to lose their homes and farms, and by pyramiding taxes he is making us all pay the bill, so I believe that we should elect Mr. Bond to defeat Mr. Mattoon Act in this emergency, and we can take care of Mr. Bond at some future time.

Thanking you for giving space in this paper for this article, I am,
Very Truly Yours,

CITY HALL BRANCH—POLICE & FIRE STATIONS FOR LA JOLLA

(La Jolla Light, Oct. 17)
La Jollans will be pleased to learn of the announcement made following the meeting Tuesday of the City Council of the passing of the appropriation by that body for funds to build here a new city hall branch as well as new fire and police station. Dr. Riach Buys Mills Home Will Move to Sunset Cliffs

Dr. May Turner Riach, M. D., of San Diego, last week closed a deal for the John P. Mills palatial home at Sunset Cliffs, Ocean Beach, which she has been bargaining for, for several weeks. Dr. Riach now has a splendid home at Chula Vista, but in an interview with the editor of The News, she stated that as soon as convenient the Mills place would be made the home of herself and family. In the meantime she has a caretaker there to look after the property and put it in first class order.

The Mills home was built in 1926 at a cost in excess of $100,000 and occupies an acre of ground fronting on the ocean at Sunset Cliffs. The house has 15 large rooms with five baths and modern equipment throughout. The garage, besides easily housing four autos, has servants quarters in it. One of the south rooms of the house upstairs contains a sunken bath and leading from this room is an exit to a stairway going down to the yard where there is a large tile swimming pool. The grounds to the north of the house contain a cemented tennis court, which many of our residents have enjoyed thru the courtesy of the caretaker while the house has been vacant.

The home which Dr. Riach has purchased here is one of the largest in all of San Diego and it is indeed a pleasure to understand that it will soon be occupied and made use of. It has been well taken care of since built and has much beautiful shrubbery and foliage.

COUNTY ASSESSOR MAKES STATEMENT ABOUT LOTS IN MATTOON DISTRICTS—STAND IN REGARD BONDS

COUNTY OF SAN DIEGO

James Hervey Johnson, Assessor

October 18, 1935

Editor Ocean Beach News,
Ocean Beach, California.

Sir:

Please allow me to call attention to a misstatement of facts in your paper of October 18, in which you publish a statement that I would not be for any bond issue unless it personally benefitted me. This statement is false.

Second, my family does not own several hundred lots in Pacific Beach. Third, I own two parcels there. Fourth, I have a great deal more interest in property outside of Mattoon Act Districts than I do have in Fifth. I have made no public statement in favor of the bond issue. Sixth, the bond issue as proposed states in a portion of the resolution that the money will be derived mostly from the districts and I am satisfied that if the plan works out, practically every dollar to be paid on the Mattoon Act Districts will be paid from the districts instead of from other property owners. However, I have followed the action of the Tax Reduction League, which has passed a resolution to the effect that they were neither for nor against this bond issue.

The statements as published in your paper under the name of "Ocean Beach Home Owner" are entirely incorrect and I believe should be corrected.

Very truly yours,
James Hervey Johnson
County Assessor

Views of Home Owner Ramona Turkey Day O. K'd by Taxpayer

200 Free Birds

Ocean Beach, October 21, 1935

To the editor of Ocean Beach News:

I have read the views of Home Owner in your last issue and think he is right. Why should I as a taxpayer who has met all my obligations, paving, light, etc., some of it without my consent, be compelled to pull the chestnuts out of the fire for some one else.

Will they do any more, or will they make any more effort to meet their obligations, then, than they have?

It seems from my observations, that the people as a whole like, or want to shift the responsibility over to somebody else's shoulders; city council to COUNTY, county to STATE, state to FEDERAL; and Jones—Pays the freight.

Yours truly

sometime on the plan, presented the proposition at the meeting.

Bennett, in announcing the appropriation to The Light yesterday, stated that it is expected that work will be started on the new improvements in the near future. The structures will be erected on the present sites here.

In fostering this appropriation Bennett adds to the list for the accomplishments already achieved by him for La Jolla.

Plans for Ramona Turkey Day, Saturday, November 2, one of the San Diego county's most unique events, are rapidly taking form and indications are that more than 20,000 will be in attendance this year, when the new and added attractions are more widely known.

Tons of roast turkey will be available, there will be a big free entertainment program, nearly 200 live turkeys will be given away during the day, there will be a Townsend speaker, and an invitation has been extended to Gov. Frank F. Merriam to be present—all features calculated to make the day a success from the standpoint of education, health and entertainment.

Winners in the big Turkey show held on the day preceding, will be on display with their prize ribbons. Three bands will furnish music, and an efficient public address system will make the program audible to all. This is a community, no-profit show, and there will be no admission charge to the program and exhibits on the grounds in the Collier park.

A cordial invitation is extended to Ocean Beach and Point Loma citizens to attend this growing annual event.

Italians Invade Ethiopia and Capture Aduwa

MAKING good on his threats and promises, Benito Mussolini sent his armies crashing across the border of Ethiopia, starting a war that gave all Europe the jitters. Under the command of Gen. Emilio De Bono, chief of the Italian colonial armies, the Italian troops laboriously advanced from Eritrea, crossing the Mareb river frontier and capturing Adigrat and other towns that had already been practically ruined by bombardment from planes. The immediate objective was Aduwa, the scene of the terrific Italian defeat 39 years ago. After several days of hard fighting against the defending Ethiopians, who lost probably 2,000 killed, the invaders marched into Aduwa, and considered that the disgrace of 1896 had been avenged. The Italian soldiers of General Marignola's command entered first, carrying to the principal square and there erecting a big stone monument inscribed "To the fallen heroes of Aduwa." There was a report that Mussolini would fly to Aduwa to unveil this memorial.

Italy officially announced that all of Tigre province was in Italian hands, and at the same time her columns were advancing into Ethiopia from the south and east, with the city of Harrar and the country's one railway as their objective. Squadrons of bombing planes were flying here and there, destroying towns and killing many of the inhabitants. In the northern sector the Italian forces were moving toward Makale and Aksum, where the Ethiopians were reported ready to offer stiff resistance. Emperor Haile Selassie was said to be about to go to the northern front. He and his advisers were apparently quite satisfied with the showing already made by his armies and spoke contemptuously of the Italian victories.

Meanwhile, in Geneva, the League of Nations council, after hearing the report of a committee of six, found that Italy had resorted to war in violation of the league covenant. This automatically must be followed by sanctions, beginning with the severance of all trade and financial relations with the aggressor nation. Probably Italy could not long endure these penalties, and Geneva was full of rumors that Mussolini was disposed to talk peace with Emperor Haile Selassie after the taking of Aduwa. Premier Laval of France, it was said, proposed to Baron Aloisi that the Duce accept an immediate cessation of hostilities and the creation of a neutral zone in Ethiopia. The peace rumors also were heard in Addis Ababa and one of the emperor's advisers, asked whether the reports were true, replied "almost." It was believed Haile Selassie would insist, in case an armistice were declared, that all Italian troops withdraw from the empire. Italian officials in Rome said they were not thinking of peace terms and that their campaign had just started.

Mussolini's Defiance to All Other Nations

SIMULTANEOUSLY with the opening of hostilities in Ethiopia, Mussolini gave the signal for tremendous mass gatherings of all Fascists in Italy. Millions of Black Shirts in all the cities dropped everything and assembled to cheer for the Duce and his African adventure. From the balcony of the Venezia palace in Rome the premier shouted the words that committed his nation to a policy that may mean either victory or ruin. He reiterated his determination to seize territory from Ethiopia but declared he would do everything possible to prevent the campaign from bringing on a European war. But he warned the League of Nations and all nations to keep their hands off, saying:

"To sanctions of an economic character we reply with our discipline, our sobriety, and our spirit of sacrifice. To sanctions of a military character we will reply with measures of military character. To acts of war we will reply with acts of war."

Embargo Is Proclaimed and Travelers Warned

FIRST giving assurance, in his speech at San Diego, that the United States would not be drawn into any foreign war, President Roosevelt issued two important proclamations. One proclaimed the embargo on all shipments of war material to the belligerent nations. The other warned Americans that travel on Italian or Ethiopian vessels would be at their own risk. Since Ethiopia has no shipping, the latter proclamation was directed solely against Italy. In yet another statement the President reversed our national policy by declaring that Americans who engage in "transactions of any character" with either of the warring nations "will do so at their own risk." In the past the United States has argued for the right of neutral citizens and commerce to "freedom of the seas."

The task of preventing shipment of American arms and munitions to Italy and Ethiopia was undertaken by the coast guard and customs service.

A. F. of L. Report Says Preserve Basic Law

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR opened its annual convention in Atlantic City with many problems up for discussion. In its report the executive council advocated preservation of the national constitution, without amendment for the present, as best for industrial recovery. It said: "That some control must be exerted over the former system of laissez faire cannot be denied."

"The experiment," the report added, (NRA), "which has been concluded, has helped to point the way to the goal which we must seek. How is congress to acquire that control over the industry and trade of our country which will make possible the necessary reforms?"

"Until exhaustive studies have been made with respect to attaining this great objective, under our present constitution, we cannot recommend just what steps should be taken in connection with this particular problem."

The report urged vigorous action to drive Reds out of the federation, and recommend the continuation of a strict labor boycott on German goods and services until the Nazis gave "adequate recognition and protection to the rights of minority groups."

Supreme Court Occupies Its New Building

QUITE without ceremony, Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and the eight associate justices of the Supreme court of the United States took possession of their new ten million dollar home which on the outside resembles a Corinthian temple.

Everything in the handsome building was new except the nine chairs the eminent jurists occupy, and these would have been replaced if the architects and decorators had had their way.

There was a big crowd present to see the justices open the first term of court in the palatial structure but only a few spectators could get inside. The first business was the admission of more than 150 lawyers to practice before the court. Then the calendar was read. On this calendar are six cases which hold the fate of the New Deal. The most important of these is one which will determine the validity of the agricultural adjustment act. That ruling may rank with the Dred Scott decision in its political consequences.

Other important cases are those challenging the Bankhead cotton control act, the Tennessee Valley authority, the right of the Public Works administration to condemn land for housing projects, the corporate reorganization act, and the right of states to tax the property of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Gen. Malin Craig Named Chief of Staff

MAJ. GEN. MALIN CRAIG, a veteran of two wars and commander of the war college, was appointed chief of staff of the American army by President Roosevelt. He took office immediately, succeeding Gen. Douglas MacArthur who is on his way to the Philippines to be military adviser to the new island commonwealth. Craig is advanced to full generalship.

Born in St. Joseph, Mo., in 1875, Craig was graduated from West Point in 1898.

Immediately afterward he saw service in Cuba during the Spanish-American war, and in June, 1900, participated in the China relief expedition made necessary by the Boxer outbreak. After service in various army posts in this country, Craig, upon American entrance into the World War in 1917, was assigned as chief of staff of the Forty-first division.

Later he became chief of staff of the First army corps, serving in that position until the armistice was signed. Then he marched into Germany, as chief of staff of the army of occupation.

Twelve Persons Killed in Air Liner Crash

TWELVE persons met sudden death when an eastbound plane of the United Air Lines crashed about fifteen miles west of Cheyenne, Wyo., in the early morning hours. The plane apparently struck the peak of a small hill and bounced, nose first, against the top of another hill. Fire did not break out but the impact was fatal to the nine passengers, two pilots and stewardess.

Naval Academy's Birthday Fittingly Celebrated

ANNAPOLIS was full of navy men, ranging from admirals down to ordinary seamen, on October 10, for that was the ninety-fifth anniversary of the founding of the United States Naval academy and it was celebrated in fine style. Heading a group of distinguished guests not identified with the service was Prof. Wilder D. Bancroft, whose grandfather, George Bancroft, famous historian, founded the academy when he was secretary of the navy under President Polk. A feature of the exercises was a sham battle in which midshipmen landed from boats, scaled the seawall and attacked the academy under protection of a barrage laid down by a sub-chaser. Sea planes and coast artillery took part in the battle.

Wallace Won't Enforce Potato Control Act

PPOTATO control was the subject of discussion at a hearing called by the AAA in Washington, and officials, farmers and consumers were given a chance to say what they thought about the Warren act, which provides for quotas for potato growers, with a prohibitive tax on production in excess of quotas, and is armored with jail penalties for willful buyers or sellers of bootleg potatoes.

This act was opposed by the New Dealers, and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace said at the conference that he does not want to enforce it and will do all in his power to avoid enforcing it. He offered several plans for voluntary methods which would reduce potato surpluses and raise prices. He continued:

"Potato growers are in real trouble and the AAA wants their judgment on possible cures for potato problems. Potato prices are about half of parity and the AAA desires to get the full benefit of the judgment of potato producers concerning plans for increasing their returns."

Roosevelt Approves Big Pennsylvania Jobs

DOWN in Lower California aboard the cruiser Houston President Roosevelt called Secretary Ickes and WPA Administrator Harry Hopkins into his cabin and studied the work situation on the basis of reports from Washington. After long consideration he formally approved $20,000,000 in works projects in Pennsylvania.

After some fishing in Arenas bay, Mr. Roosevelt headed straight out into the Pacific ocean for Cocos Island off the coast of Costa Rica, a rendezvous of the old-time pirates where search is often made for supposed buried gold. He had good luck angling there last year, and went to try it again.

World Series Is Won by Detroit Tigers

DETROIT TIGERS, champions of the American league, are now also champions of the world, for, as everyone in the land knows, they defeated the Chicago Cubs, titleholders of the National league, in the world series. The Tigers won the second, third, fourth and sixth games; the Cubs, the first and fifth. Capacity crowds watched these exciting contests, and the players raked in a goodly pile of money.

In Chicago two eminent musicians and musical critics died within two days. They were Edward Moore of the Chicago Tribune and Karleton Hackett, president of the Chicago City Opera company.

Communists in Mexico Tear Down Swastika

NOW it is up to Reichsfuehrer Hitler to complain to Mexico, for his sacred emblem has been desecrated there. Communists in Mexico City who were demonstrating riotously against Fascism and "Italian aggression" all of a sudden turned their attention to Germany and Nazism. They rushed to the honorary German consulate, tore the swastika from the staff and dragged it through the streets. Only the arrival of a strong detachment of police saved the German club from attack.

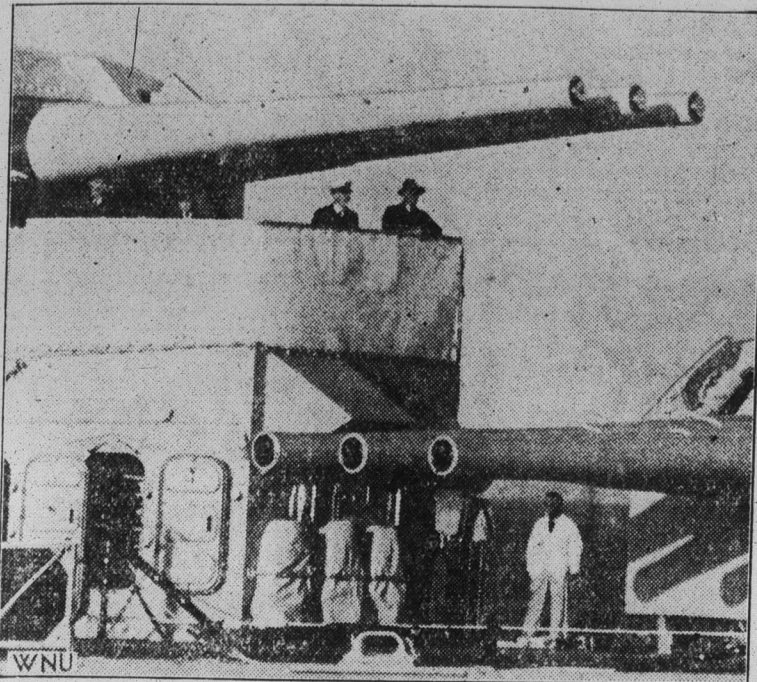

Big First Quarter Deficit Reported by Treasury

TREASURY report for three months ending September 30 showed a first quarter deficit of $832,000,000. This was 34 per cent greater than for the corresponding period a year ago which at that time was a record deficit. Expenditures for the quarter amounted to $1,820,000,000. This was an average of about $20,000,000 a day.

The deficit occurred in spite of increased taxes and other revenues in excess to improved business. Total revenues for the three months were $908,000,000 compared with $954,000,000 in the corresponding period of the preceding fiscal year.

A substantial amount of the increase in expenditures was due to AAA payments to farmers.

ROOSEVELT LEAVES CALIFORNIA

After a speech at San Diego in which he said, "We are moved by the stern determination to avoid those perils that will endanger our peace with the world," President Roosevelt boarded the cruiser Houston to watch the first practice naval battle ever to be witnessed by a U. S. President. Following the fleet attack, in which 499 fighting planes and 130 warships took part, the Houston cruised southward with the President, en route to Washington via Panama Canal. Coach Tiny Thornhill knows his boys are up against a speedy, well-oiled grid machine, one capable of giving the Indians as much in the way of defense as San Jose State or the University of San Francisco, and probably more in the way of offense. The Sacramento County Grand Jury has been called into session to investigate all angles of the State Treasury defalcation case which began with the disappearance of William B. Shearer, 74-year-old state cashier, shown above, and the discovery that $24,000 in public funds were missing.

Most members of the Glenn-Butte Wool Growers' Association, at a recent meeting in Willows, declared themselves not in favor of application of the California sales tax to sales of breeding livestock.

always dangerous in their own territory, particularly if there should be any "unusual weather" in the vicinity.

The only other conference tilt scheduled for this week-end is the Washington State College and Montana game. Steamroller W. S. C., favored by northwest grid experts to cop the Pacific Coast Conference championship, should take the measure of the Grizzlies.

Other Coast contests drawing attention are the U. S. C. Illinois tussle at Los Angeles and the St. Mary's College of Pacific scuffle to be held at San Francisco. Headman Howard Jones has been more pleased with the showing of the 1935 Trojan Horse than with the bone-spavined 1934 specimen. The old drive which carried the cardinal and gold to coast and national championships four to seven years ago has come back.

The St. Mary's College of Pacific game will draw crowds, not so much because of the terms involved, but because of the two men behind the teams. Two of the country's most colorful coaches, Alonzo Stagg and "Slip" Madigan, will be matching wits in this game. Although the dope-bucket says Madigan probably has the stronger team, Magician Stagg always displays a trick or two which can be most disconcerting to the opposition.

GRANDFATHERS IN CONCERT

Grandfathers formed a glee club and gave a concert in Lambeth, England, recently. Nine grandfathers sang, one grandfather played the accompaniments and the "cash boy" was a grandfather aged seventy-four. Younger members of the audience and grandmothers helped with choruses of such songs of 50 years ago as "Darling Mabel," "Running Up and Down Stairs" and "The Girl in the Pinafore Dress."

Bedtime Story for Children

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

LIGHTFOOT'S CLEVER TRICK

LIGHTFOOT the Deer is smart. Yes, sir, Lightfoot the Deer is smart. He has to be, especially in the hunting season, to save his life. If he were not smart he would have been killed long ago. He never makes the foolish mistake of thinking that other people are not smart. He knew that that hunter who had started out to follow him early that morning was not one to be easily discouraged or to be fooled by simple tricks. He had a very great respect for the smartness of that hunter. He knew that he couldn't afford to be careless for one little minute.

The certainty of danger sometimes is easier to bear than the uncertainty of not knowing whether or not there really is any danger. Lightfoot felt that if he could know just where the hunter was, he himself would know better what to do. The hunter might have become discouraged and given up following him. In that case he could rest and stop worrying. It would be better to know that he was being followed than not to know. But how was he to find out? Lightfoot kept turning this over and over in his mind as he traveled through the Green Forest. Then an idea came to him.

"I know what I'll do. I know just what I'll do," said Lightfoot to himself. "I'll find out whether or not that hunter is still following me and I'll get a little rest. Goodness knows, I need a rest."

Lightfoot bounded away swiftly and ran for some distance, then he turned and quickly but very, very quietly returned in the direction from which he had just come, but a little to one side of his old trail. After a while he saw what he was looking for, a pile of branches which wood choppers had left when they had trimmed the trees they had cut down. This was near the top of a little hill. Lightfoot went up the hill and stopped behind a pile of brush. For a few moments he stood there, perfectly still, looking and listening. Then, with a little sigh of relief he lay down, where, without being in any danger of being seen himself, he could watch his old trail through the hollow at the bottom of the hill. If the hunter was still following him he would pass along through that hollow in plain sight.

For a long time Lightfoot rested comfortably behind the pile of brush. There was not a suspicious sound to show that danger was abroad in the Green Forest. He saw Mr. and Mrs. Grouse fly down across the hollow and disappear among the trees on the other side. He saw Unc' Billy Possum looking over a hollow tree and guessed that Unc' Billy was getting ready to go into winter quarters. He saw Jumper the Hare squat down under a low hanging branch of a hemlock tree and prepare to take a nap. He heard Drummer the Woodpecker at work drilling after worms in a tree not far away. Little by little Lightfoot grew easy in his mind. It must be that the hunter had become discouraged and was no longer following him.

QUESTION BOX
by ED WYNN, The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I just heard of a man who had a chicken farm in Florida that made him a million dollars in the last year. Do you believe that—if so, how did he do it?

Sincerely,

IKE ANT. C. HOWE.

Answer: He cut his farm up into building lots and sold the chicken coops for bungalows.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

A friend of mine said that many poor families would starve if it wasn't for liquor. What does he mean by that?

Sincerely,

RHE FORMER.

Answer: He means that lots of families would starve to death if it wasn't for the fact that by selling their empty beer and whiskey bottles they get enough money to buy food with.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

What is the quickest way to make sawdust?

Yours truly,

M. T. NOODLE.

Answer: Use your head, my boy, use your head.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

On our twenty-fifth wedding anniversary my wife and I had a big party. The guests called on my wife for a speech. She said I was a model husband. Don't you think that is wonderful after 25 years?

Sincerely,

LOUIE VILL.

Answer: All depends how you look at it. According to Webster's dictionary the word "model" means "a small imitation of the real thing."

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I am placed in a very peculiar position. I am a girl twenty years of age and have just met a young man twenty-three years of age. He has lived all his life with his widowed father, on a horse ranch. I am the only girl he ever saw in his life. He wants to marry me. Here's my problem: Can I be happy with a man who knows nothing else but horses?

Truly yours,

HOPE E. TERNAL.

Answer: You should be very happy with him except for one thing. You say all he understands is horses. In that case if you should have an accident and break your leg he will probably shoot you.

MOTHER'S
COOK BOOK

FOR THE CHILDREN

WHEN the children refuse to eat when meal time comes, usually it is nothing to worry about. Just give them a fruit drink or an egg yolk beaten well and added to a glass of orange juice. A bit of honey for sweetening may add to its attractiveness, but usually the orange juice has sufficient sweetness to be very palatable.

In addition to being very appetizing the following will build healthy bones and teeth and add vitamins which stimulate appetite and digestion:

Orange Milk Foam.

Take six tablespoons each of orange juice, milk and water, one teaspoon of honey and beat or shake well. Serve in a large glass at once. This is a good breakfast or luncheon drink. The addition of citrus fruit juices to milk promotes its digestion and adds to its palatability. Children who refuse milk when served alone will take it in this way. The addition of an egg yolk will make a real food drink. The use of honey is recommended as it is partly digested sugar and is for that reason easily assimilated.

Orange Baskets.

Cut off the tops of oranges and scoop out the fruit, leaving the shell clean. Cut the edge into points or scallops and fill the shells with the orange, a bit of chopped banana, canned pears or peaches when the fresh fruit is not obtainable. Top with:

Golden Salad Dressing.

Cook together in a double boiler, three-fourths of a cup each of lemon juice and sugar, and two well beaten eggs. Stir while cooking and remove as soon as the egg is cooked. Add whipped cream and serve for variety. This a dressing especially well liked by children.

Kindergarten "Quads" of Detroit

ON SCOOTERS specially purchased for the occasion, Michigan's famous Morlok quadruplets are seen starting to scoot to school in Detroit where they enrolled in the kindergarten class. They are the only kindergarten quads in America. The teachers started to worry about identification so their mother put a name button on each dress.

All of the children drew a sudden breath. As if they'd glanced at Death.

Plant Trees for Erosion ControlNurseries Have Enormous
Task in Providing Necessary Material.

Approximately 600,000,000 trees and shrubs will be produced by nurseries of the soil conservation service and co-operating agencies for use on erosion control demonstration projects throughout the country the coming year, Charles R. Entow, chief of the division of nurseries of the service, announced.

The nursery program also calls for collection of 1,000,000 pounds of grass seed not commercially available, to be used in erosion control planting.

To meet this heavy production assignment, 19 new nurseries will be established bringing the total number of service nurseries to 83, in 38 states. They now range in size from two acres to 800 acres, with the average about 50 acres.

Fifteen of these nurseries are under supervision of Emergency Conservation work and were established primarily to provide materials for use by the 545 Civilian Conservation corps camps under direction of the service. Certain other nursery areas providing trees for the service are operated in co-operation with state foresters.

The mounting demand for trees shrubs and grasses has been occasioned by the recent expansion in the demonstration program of the service, which increased the number of demonstration projects from 47 in 31 states, to 141 in 41 states, and the number of CCC camps from 55 to 545.

A large share of the 600,000,000 trees and shrubs will be used in the reforestation and afforestation phases of federal erosion control work on farm and grazing lands. Under the soil conservation program, areas too steep or otherwise unsuited for practical cultivation are taken out of crop production and planted in trees and shrubs to prevent erosion by wind and water. In many instances, shrubs and vines are used in the control of gullies. When planted on gully banks, they anchor the soil and prevent it from washing away. When used on lands subject to wind erosion, trees and shrubs serve a double purpose by anchoring the soil and by breaking the sweep of wind. They also slow up runoff of rain water.

The 1,000,000 pounds of grass seed will be used to plant cover on certain lands retired from cultivation under the erosion control program. Like trees, grass anchors the soil and prevents it from being washed away by rain or blown away by wind.

Grass seed will be collected from 25 species of native grasses not produced commercially.

Sparrows Save Man's Life

Sparrows have saved the life of a man who long befriended them at Galbrunn, Austria. Franze Oberhuber, seventy-five years old, a peasant and a bachelor, made it a habit every morning during 20 years to feed from his window the sparrows that came regularly in masses for their meal. One morning the window was closed and there was no food for them. The noise made by several thousand birds attracted the attention of neighbors, who entered the house and found the old man unconscious in his bed. He had fallen seriously ill during the night and had nobody to help him.

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

LEAGUE ACTION UPHELD

Italian hostilities are stirring the nations of the world to a more profound anxiety for peace. Already people are asserting determined opinions more than ever before to avoid war, with steps to prevent it in the future. The United States is not a member of the League of Nations, but in times like these, when the crisis is on it is likely to find that our national interests are identical with those of the majority of League members.

The strongholds of war are usually confined to those countries where the people have been silenced. Where constitutional government has gone and arbitrary power has usurped the place of the public will, war finds its chief advocacy. Wherever the people are free, where the voice of the people is heard, where speech is untrammelled and liberty of action unchained, the cause of peace leaps ahead.

It is in the wishes and desires of the people for peace that the hope of it lies. However, much is being done for peace in the world. Never before in human history has so much effort and attention been given to the cause of world peace. The League of Nations has been active and has the credit of warding off war and its hostilities ever since nearly a year ago. The League has had its unsurmountable difficulties in dealing with the Italo-Ethiopia dispute. This great body with its members of 58 nations is composed of a League Council of 16 chosen members which has handled the situation judiciously and within reason.

The United States neutrality machinery could be used not only to keep America out of war but to help prevent war, at any time public opinion demands action. But one courageous act after another writes history. The week ends with the League certain, but with Italy wavering. Russia, the Little Entente and other European nations have rallied in strength around the standard of the League Covenant—which now flies higher and more bravely over Geneva. One by one, they took their places with the trail blazers, Britain and France, and declared for the undivided Covenant.

ADVERTISING CREATES MORE BUSINESS

Many merchants, some of them right here in Ocean Beach, are accustomed to think of advertising as a means of taking business from someone else, instead of looking at it as a proper method of stimulating sales of commodities advertised. This is being illustrated forcefully in many national advertising campaigns, where manufacturers of certain articles band themselves together into a national association for the purpose, not of fighting the other man's product, but of selling the consumer more machines that both make.

This same idea should apply to local advertising. Merchants who advertise in the Ocean Beach News do not necessarily compete for a minimum amount of business, which one must take from the other. Rather it is true, that with up-to-date advertising, we should create an impression that we have one of the best shopping areas outside the downtown business part of the city, and if we do this thoroughly and consistently then much more business will come in—enough to give all a worthwhile share for their effort.

Theodore Roosevelt, the 26th President of the United States, would have been 77 years old next Sunday, the 27th, had he lived. This great soldier statesman was not only a leader in political economy, but he was an author and a gentleman who deeply loved his country. Unfortunately he was cut off from his useful and fearless career as a citizen in public life sixteen years ago, dying in his sleep. As a Harvard graduate he rose rapidly in favor in the public eye, altho he was defeated for mayor of New York City in 1886. His great influence was felt while serving as president of the N.Y. City police board, and Secretary of the Navy under President McKinley's first term; later, however, he resigned to organize the "Rough Riders" at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war, and distinguished himself for his great bravery in the Battle of San Juan Hill. He became President on the assassination of President McKinley and was re-elected again in 1904. He made a vigorous attack upon "trusts" and combinations in restraint of trade, as well as sponsoring many other reforms.

The war situation is a human disaster with dreadful tragedy in the very atmosphere of world peace. Countries are somewhat diffident in showing principle; but it might be a little surprising to the average person to know that almost every country of industrial or agricultural importance, already has a busy finger in the Ethiopian affair. Therefore, we may continue to expect war and rumors of war, so long as profit rules over conscience! On the other hand, Mussolini proclaiming: "War enables the people who have the courage to face it," is none too enlightening. With his dictatorial program followed by the same motive in Hitler and Stalin, it appears that Europe is a long way out of peace harmony.—According to our daily papers Henry Ford will ship no more trucks to Italy until this war business is settled, BUT, Standard Oil will continue to furnish them its products because they have been regular customers during peace times.

Everybody, old and young, has a hunch that next Thursday night is Halloween—the eve of All Hallows' or All Saints Day. This means that October 31st is always a night of hilarity with the traditional mischief and sport, carried on by kiddies and the older set. Even to this day the occasion has a mystery meaning to the majority who join in taking a part in the "tomoolery," skylarking tricks and monkey shines—all at the expense of the other fellow. So better prepare to sweep off the litter from the front porch next morning, or drag your porch chair home from your next-door neighbor's back yard. There will be "witches" on the streets and in the front yards ringing door bells to help in the blair of ear-splitting horns and join in the hubbub of laughing voices.—Let's not be destructive, but just out for fun.

POULTRY HELP.

By E. E. Steele.

Chickenpox and diphtheria were originally thought to be separate diseases. It was discovered later that the virus which causes the formation of warts or pox nodules on the head also causes the cheesy patches in the mouth and eyes which are diphtheria. Chickenpox is external, diphtheria is internal.

The disease is, strictly infectious and never develops as a result of exposure to dampness and drafts alone, altho these conditions favor its spread.

The symptoms in general are the same as roup but are distinguished from the latter by an eruption of pox nodules on the head and by the presence of cheesy patches in the mouth, throat and eyes.

The eruption appears in irregularly shaped nodules from the size of a pin head to about the size of a pea, especially about the beak, nostrils, comb, eyelids, wattles and ears.

In advanced cases, owing to the number of nodules, large patches become thickened and covered with hard, dry crusts, closing the nostrils and eyelids and make it difficult even to open the beak.

The internal or diphtheria deposits determine the severity of the disease.

These are at first thin, white or yellow in color, they gradually become thick and firm so that considerable force is required to remove them.

The treatment of birds with diphtheria requires much time and patience and as a rule does not pay.

The following is a flock treatment, of course as mentioned before, separate the sick birds, give the whole flock Epsom salt, mix the following and feed as regular mash feed to the whole flock:

100 lbs. regular mash.
2 lbs. sulphur.
1 lb. baking soda.
1/2 lb. cream tartar.

Also, use argyrol in the eyes as recommended in contagious catarrh.

Cover the head with the sulphur ointment.

At the first sign of chickenpox, I give my whole flock the above mash mixture for 2 weeks, and spray the flock every night with the "preventive spray for colds", also disinfect all houses every day and all yards every night.

Ocean Beach Grammar School News

FIRST AID KITS

The fifth grade of the Ocean Beach school under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. Moon and the school nurse, Miss Sohler have put together three first aid kits for the use of the school when class groups are taken on field excursions.

The children brought small bottles and boxes from their homes in which to put the solutions of alcohol, mercurchrome, and aromatic spirits of ammonia. These first aid supplies plus bandage, dressings, and adhesive comprise the contents of the kits. It is a requirement made by the Superintendent of schools that each class going on a trip carry a first aid kit, so cuts and scratches can be cared for at the time they occur.

P. T. A. AWARD

The children in the low fourth grade in Miss Neal's room won the cash prize of two dollars awarded by the Ocean Beach PTA to the room which succeeded in getting the largest number of people to become members of the organization. These children secured twenty-eight new members for the PTA.

A vote was taken by members of the class to decide whether the prize should be spent to buy something for their room or for a trip. It was unanimously voted by the children to spend the money on an excursion to the Exposition next week.

EXPOSITION TRIP

The fifth grade accompanied by their teacher, Mrs. Moon attended the Exposition last Wednesday. The trip was made primarily to visit the water exhibits at the fair as they are studying about water, its uses and the change it has made in man's way of living.

The children were given special attention at every exhibit by the persons in charge and therefore, learned a great deal about the uses to which water is put in this state.

Miss Van Horn's second graders are completing their circus unit. They have been making animals, tents, wagons, clowns, pictures and a merry-go-round. A circus play is to be given in the near future.

BEACH LUNCH

Every two weeks, on Friday the 3A-3B room goes to the beach to eat their lunch. This is a reward for good citizenship. Last week almost everyone in the room had the opportunity to go.

The low sixth grade from Miss Shea's room visited the Expo Tuesday, Oct. 22. Mrs. Davis from Mr. Bailey's office met the children on Cabrillo bridge and introduced them to guides in the Wells-Fargo and in the Palace of Education.

The Ford building, Roads of the Pacific, State building and Transportation building were visited during the early afternoon.

Attending a play "As You Like It" at the Old Globe theatre completed the day's program. The class wishes to thank Mrs. J. S. Watson, Mrs. Welch, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Haynes, Mr. Chappelle, Mrs. M. K. Watson for furnishing transportation.

TEAS

Mrs. Karl's room mothers held their tea Thursday, Oct. 17. The tea table was decorated in the colors of orange and black and bronze chrysanthemums. Mrs. Cleveland in charge was assisted by Mrs. Walsh, Mrs. Chadwick, and Mrs. Thomas.

The mothers of the children in the kindergarten gathered informally at a tea in the kindergarten Monday afternoon. Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Burkheimer were in charge representing the PTA.

MARINES FACE FIRST DEFEAT TONIGHT—FRIDAY

The strong Pomona College football squad which thundered to a 14-0 defeat of Whittier College will engage the undefeated San Diego Marine team at Sports field Friday night. Pomona's strength will make them favorite over Coach Chas. Lotts charges who have proven a powerful, versatile outfit in action, proving San Diego fans with the greatest football they have ever witnessed from a local squad.

General McDougal, in command of the local Marine units, is an enthusiastic supporter of the team. His support has done much to make the season so far a successful one. Officers and enlisted personnel turn in in full force for each game with the base Marine band of over 100 pieces adding to the spectacle.

A win over Pomona will give them 5 wins in a row with no defeats for the '35 season.

The Junior Varsity of the Golden Bear from Berkeley will meet the Marines the following week end at the San Diego Sports Field.

$6,800 ADDITION FOR MISSION BEACH SCHOOL VOTED

A proposal to add two classrooms to Mission Beach school at a cost of approximately $6800, won the approval of the Board of Education Monday night. The board ordered detailed plans drawn and forwarded to the state architect.

It is proposed to build one standard room at $3800 and a smaller one at $3000. The rooms would be adjoining and have a removable partition between them so the two could be converted into an auditorium.

The Board also ordered a survey of needs at Point Loma High School with the prospects of adding four classrooms at the rear of the present auditorium.

The board appropriated $78 to share the expense of a tool shed and ticket booth at La Jolla High school. Superintendent Will Crawford was authorized to proceed with an agreement with the city for control of the city stadium.

Point Loma High School News.

The "bottle neck" on the school parking lot has at last been eliminated. All measures to further safety have been taken.

The fence at the rear of the athletic field has been completed. This brings the improvements up to a high standard.

Request for an arc light for night safety on the Point Loma High school grounds, has been filed in the City Schools administration offices. Since there are several night programs, it was considered advisable to light up the parking lot.

"Loma Peps" is the name of the official rooting section. The Pointers were rather proud when the news photographer came out to "shoot" the new organization as they sat cheering in the bleachers. School spirit seems to be growing by leaps and bounds this year.

Saume Camp Fire Girls have been busy for the last two weeks making pom poms of maroon and gold crepe paper for patriotic students to wave at the games. So far orders for fifty-two have been filled and the rooting section has taken on that touch of color which completes the collegiate atmosphere of Ross Field. Megaphones have also been painted in the school colors.

A newly decorated auditorium will greet parents and visitors to Point Loma High school programs. Cream walls are set off by black beams. Miss Willa Brodie of the art department, in conjunction with the auditorium committee is responsible for the new decorative scheme. Under her direction, some very effective chandeliers are being designed. They will portray Spanish ships and dolphins. The metal shop will make the frames for the chandeliers.

FOOTBALLERS AT GROSSMONT TODAY

Point Loma High school's football squad meets a formidable foe in Grossmont High today 2:30 o'clock on the Grossmont field. Grossmont, Metropolitan league champions, barely squeezed out a 7-6 victory over Point Loma last year, and the Lomans are hoping to score an upset this time to stop Grossmont's record of 22 victories.

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALLERS LOSE TO SWEETWATER HIGH

The Point Loma High school football squad bowed in an ignominious defeat of 13-0 in a game played with the underdog Sweetwater High team last Friday on Ross Field.

The Loman backs showed a good deal of speed; and Jed Lutes, full-back, got off some nice punts in spite of a very bad charley-horse; but with a weak line and fairly ragged playing, the Point Loma attack did not get very far. The Lomans, however, were outweighed about 20 pounds to the man, and were weakened considerably by the loss of several key men due to flu and injuries.

The Sweeties displayed better organized play, gaining consistently against the Lomans.

The first half saw both teams threatening to score. Sweetwater started with the ball on their own 20 yard line, and marched steadily down the field, only to be stopped when Lutes intercepted a pass on the Loman 20. Point Loma's threat started when Mixon, center, intercepted a pass, to place the ball on the Sweetwater 44. The half ended with the ball in Point Loma's possession on the Sweetwater 6 yard line.

Sweetwater scored once in the 3rd quarter. The touchdown came when a Point Loma punt, due to a bad pass from center and poor interference by backs, was blocked and recovered by Sweetwater, placing the ball on the Loman 15. A general let-down on the part of the Point Loma players followed the blocking of the kick, and Sweetwater soon scored on line plunges. The conversion was good.

The Sweeties scored in the 4th quarter after Hallock, on a 41 yard run, put the ball on the Point Loma 26, following which run, the ball was carried over on plunges. Shreve, Loman end, blocked the conversion. Final score: Sweetwater Union High, 13; Point Loma High, 0.

FISHING PIER STILL RECEIVES OCCASIONAL PUSH

A committee from Ocean Beach Kiwanis called upon the city manager's office last week in regard to the municipal fishing pier proposed at Ocean Beach and received the usual promises of cooperation from assistant Fred Lockwood, however, in our estimation, Fred and the City Engineer's office has been doing a first class job of "passing the buck" for the past 60 days.

Wednesday, directors of our chamber of commerce had a conference arranged with Mr. Lockwood and Supervisor Edgar Hastings. A member of the city engineer's staff was called in and is reported to have acknowledged no attempt had been made to draw definite plans and specifications as directed by the city council several weeks ago, the reason given being that this department believed no money available for the project on account of it calling for much more material and less man hours of labor than ordinarily is given consideration under government work relief consideration.

LUTHERAN DAY TO BE HELD NEXT SUNDAY AT THE EXPOSITION GROUNDS

Next Sunday afternoon all the Lutherans of Southern California will celebrate Lutheran day at the California International Exposition by holding a special vesper service at the organ amphitheater from 4 to 5 o'clock. At this service the large Lutheran chorus of Southern California consisting of approximately one hundred voices, and directed by Mr. Dankworth, will offer special selection. Mr. George Miller will be the accompanist for the chorus. The Lutheran chorus of Southern California was established in 1925 and has presented concerts at Los Angeles, Pasadena, Long Beach, Orange, Whittier, Anaheim and San Diego. Its concerts when not exclusively Bach compositions have contained a majority of Bach chorals.

The prominent speaker for the day will be Dr. W. H. T. Dau of Berkeley, a former professor at Concordia Theological seminary, president of the Valparaiso Lutheran university of Indiana and noted orator. He will speak on the subject "What Of The Future Of The Christian Church."

All Lutherans and the general public are most cordially invited to attend this special vesper hour.

BAPTIST CHURCH SERVICES

Rev. W. S. Dunn will occupy the pulpit in the morning hour of worship at 11 o'clock. His sermon subject will be "Our Surety in the New Covenant". The evening service is at 7:30 and the pastor will speak on the subject "The Penalty of Indecision." Special music by the choir at both services.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Probation after Death" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. "The Golden Text is from James, "Blessed is the man that endureth temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him."

The Lesson-Sermon presents these words of Christ Jesus, from John: "Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life. For as the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself."

A passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, states: "The old man with his deeds must be put off. Nothing sensual or sinful is immortal. The death of a false material sense and of sin, not the death of organic matter, is what reveals man and Life, harmonious, real, and eternal."

Hear The "Messiah" Friday or Sunday

The greatest sacred composition of all time, in point of its undying worldwide popularity, will be produced in the Ford Music Bowl at the California Pacific International Exposition Oct. 25 and 27 by the famous 350-voice Exposition choir, under the direction of Dr. Earl Rosenberg.

The composition is the ever popular "Messiah" by George Frederick Handel, great German composer, and declared to be the most representative of all oratorios.

"In the field of music," declared Dr. Rosenberg, "no work stands head and shoulders above other masterpieces as does this one among oratorios. We are happy to be able to present the 'Messiah' to exposition audiences for we feel it will be a musical treat that will live long in the memories of those who hear it."

Dr. Rosenberg, organizer and conductor of the world-famous Exposition chorus, which has been featured several times this season in nationwide radio hookups and has been re-broadcast to the world in short-wave frequency, is regarded as a national authority upon Handel music. For five years he was conductor of the famous Messiah festivals of Bethany college, and has presented the work on numerous occasions in eastern music centers.

The complete performance of the "Messiah" is rarely given. Dr. Rosenberg declared. Originally written to take five hours in performance, Dr. Rosenberg has reduced it for exposition audiences to an hour and 20 minutes.

The oratorio begins with the foretelling of the coming of the Messiah by the prophets, the heaven sent announcement of His birth, and the bearing of the "tidings of great joy" by the shepherds. Dr. Rosenberg said.

The story of Christ's actual appearance upon earth begins the second part, which deals with His passion, death, resurrection and the spread of the Gospel. The third part relates the truths of Christianity, the resurrection of the "body and the life everlasting." It closes with a magnificent theme of "Christian justice omnipotent" and a promise of eternal happiness.

THE THEOSOPHICAL SOCIETY: POINT LOMA

"Beyond Death" will be the subject for discussion at the forum-lecture at Theosophical headquarters Point Loma, in which Grace Knoche, Jr., will show that in the Theosophical philosophy death is nothing to be feared. Miss Knoche says that "Death itself is one of Nature's most beautiful processes. It is a continuation of life in states and conditions more beautiful and expansive than anything earth can offer. Men fear death because they don't know what it means. It is not cessation of consciousness. On the contrary it is awakening. The body must be cast aside. But this is not the end of life. The eternal pilgrim that is now released from the vehicle of a physical body now experiences life on other spheres, more ethereal planes. Theosophy describes these plainly; and it is definite knowledge about this—which does not mean the teachings of spiritualism—is the keynote that will finally prove to men that death is but an episode in the eternal life of the soul, and that at the proper cycle the human ego will again return to earth-life."

Abbott Clark will assist Miss Knoche in answering questions.

"Luther and The Forgiveness of Sins" will be the subject of the sermon at 10:45 o'clock. This service will be a reformation service in commemoration of Dr. Martin Luther, who on October 31, 1517, posted on the Castle church at Wittenberg his position and stand as to the Holy Word of God. He was a firm believer, not in the wisdom of men, but in the wisdom of God, as he found it in his book, the Bible. It was already in this year that he began the translation of the Bible. Come and celebrate this reformation service with us.

The Sunday school lesson for all departments will be "Jacob Moves To Egypt." That Joseph shared his blessings with his dear old father, and that he also honored his aged father will be the central ideas brought out in the lesson.

SEPTEMBER GASOLINE TAX IS $3,984,627.73

Sacramento, October 22—Doubling the gain shown in August, California gasoline taxes for last month reached a total of $3,984,627.78, marking an advance of $826,943.39, or 26 per cent, over the corresponding figure for September of last year. John C. Corbett, State Board of Equalization Member from San Francisco, made this revelation here today when motor vehicle fuel tax assessments for September were completed.

"Surpassing all expectations," said Corbett, "the amount of gasoline subject to the three cent state tax last month was 134,162,400 gallons. This monthly total has been exceeded only twice during the past two years."

SYNOPSIS

The future of the youthful and comely "Widder" Marcia Howe is a conversational fit-bit among housewives of Wilton. Eligible bachelors and widowers also are interested. Marcia has as her guest her late husband's niece, Sylvia Hayden. A stranger, on the verge of exhaustion, finds his way to Marcia's home. Secretly, he asks her to hide a package containing jewelry. She does so. Elisha Winslow, town sheriff, brings news of a jewel robbery nearby. The stranger gives his name as Stanley Heath. Sylvia discovers the jewels, and naturally believes Heath is a robber. She realizes that Marcia must have hidden them, and decides to say nothing. Marcia feels she has altogether too deep an interest in her guest, but is powerless to overcome it. Heath wires "Mrs. S. C. Heath," New York, saying he is safe. He also orders a man named Currier to come at once. Sylvia, in her room, bedsacks herself with the jewels. At Marcia's approach she hides them there. Heath asks Marcia to bring them to him. They are gone! He kindly makes light of the loss. Sylvia restores the jewels to their original hiding place.

"Ought to be in my breast pocket," thrusting his hand inside his pea-coat. "My eye! If I ain't forgot that telegram!" he abruptly exclaimed. "The station-master at Sawyer Falls gave it to me when he handed out the mail. It clean went out of my mind. It's for that chap Heath who's stayin' over at 'The Widder's'."

"Hadin' you been wool-gatherin' you might 'a' given it to Sylvia to take back with her. She was here only a little while ago," Silas Nickerson said. "I know it."

"She I was to take it over," Elisha Winslow suggested eagerly. "I'm willin' to."

"Fur's that goes, I can carry it," Capt. Phineas Taylor piped.

"Now, there's no use in all you fellows volunteerin'," Eleazer Crocker asserted. "I'm goin' straight over to Marcia's, as it happens, soon's I've et my dinner, an' I'll take the telegram."

With an air of authority, he held out his hand.

The crowd fell back.

Early afternoon found Marcia alone in the Homestead sitting room. Sylvia had gone up the beach. Stanley Heath was asleep; and at last the delicious interval of solitude which the woman coveted was here.

The basket at her elbow overflowed with mending, but she had not yet taken up her needle.

She could not work. Try as she would, her mind wandered off into byways too fascinating to be resisted—byways which no matter how remote their windings, invariably led her back to Stanley Heath.

In retrospect she lived over again every incident, every word, every look that had passed between them, until she came to the barrier of the unknown which her fancy bridged with intricate rainbow-hued imaginings. She twisted possible explanations this way and that and would contentedly have continued the pastime had not Eleazer Crocker knocked at the door.

Eleazer could not have chosen a more inopportune moment to drag her back to earth.

With a frown and a deep sigh, Marcia went reluctantly to let him in.

"Wal, now ain't it nice to find you by yourself?" was his greeting. "The kitchen looks cozy as can be. Where was you settin'?"

"I was in the front room, but perhaps we better drop down here so I can listen in case Mr. Heath should call."

"Anywhere you say. Wherever you are suits me."

"I'll just run in and put the screen round the fire and get my mending," Marcia replied a trifle uneasily. "I'll be right back."

Left to himself, Eleazer smiled a smile of satisfaction.

The kitchen was warm, Marcia was alone and apparently not busy. Could circumstances be more propitious? Fortune certainly was with him. Today, this very afternoon, he would take his future in his hands and put to her the question he had so often determined to put.

When Marcia came back, he was primed and ready to begin his declaration.

"Weather's been fine, ain't it?" he started out.

Marcia took up her sewing.

"Do you think so?" questioned she, raising her brows. "Seems to me we've had lots of rain and fog."

"Wal, yes, now you mention it I do recall a few thick days. Still, spring is comin'."

"I'd like to shingle the south ell this spring," announced Marcia, giving a disconcertingly practical twist to the conversation. "How many shingles do you suppose it would take?"

Eleazer frowned. The dialogue was not proceeding along the lines he had mapped out.

"I'd have to reckon that out. It's a good notion, though, to make the ell tight. That's what the birds are doin'."

"They're gettin' their nests built an' kinder pickin' out their mates."

"I did not realize you were so much interested in birds, Eleazer," Marcia exclaimed. "I have a fine bird book I must lend you. It's in the other room. I'll fetch it."

Springing up, she disappeared.

"Drat it!" murmured Eleazer. "Could anything be more exasperatin'? An'

me neither knowin' nor carin' a hang whether a bird's a robin or a sparrow."

"Oh, heavens, who's this comin'? If it ain't Lish Winslow! Now what in thunder does he want, buttin' in?"

Eleazer threw open the door.

Before he could speak, however, Elisha puffed and out of breath bawled:

"Where in the name of goodness did you put the engine-house key, Eleazer? Whipple's hen house is afire an' we've hunted high an' low for it!"

"My soul an' body," Eleazer gasped, "I clean forgot to leave it. Must be in my pocket."

Wildly he began to search.

"You're a fine head of the fire department, you are!" roared Elisha. "If you'd put your mind on town business 'stead of on Marcia Howe, we'd all be better off. Traipsing over here to see her in the middle of the day, palmin' off that telegram as an excuse. You better go straight back to the village fast as you can leg it an' carry the key with you," went on the accuser. "Don't wait for nothin'. I'll explain matters to Marcia."

"But I've got to see her. I've got to speak to her private," protested the wretched official. "I want to give her somethin'."

"Give it to me. I'll hand it to her," Elisha's extended palm was not to be ignored.

"This—this—telegram," quavered Eleazer. "I ain't had a chance to—"

"Do you mean to say you ain't given her that telegram yet?"

"I was intendin' to. I was just about to when—"

"Wal, of all the—" words failed Elisha. "Here, give it to me," he commanded. "I can be depended on to deliver messages if you can't. I'll see she has it. In the meantime, the best thing you can do is to hoof it to town quick's ever you can."

"Ain't you comin'?"

"? No. Fire's ain't in my line. Long's Marcia's here by herself an' den by fog he had escaped in his boat and inadvertently run aground at the mouth of Wilton harbor.

Of course Marcia did not know. Even though a friendship existed between herself and Heath, she was unquestionably ignorant of the nefarious means by which he earned his living.

Far from cherishing anger or resentment toward the person who exposed his villainy and prevented her from sacrificing herself to such an unprincipled adventurer, would she not regard her rescuer with deepest gratitude? Elisha's head whirled.

Nevertheless, confused though he was, it was clear to him he must not make a mis-step and neglect to perform his official duty with dignity.

Heath was ill. There would be no danger of his leaving the Homestead at present, especially as he had no suspicion the jewels had been discovered.

The best plan was for him to return to the mainland; get his badge and handcuffs; find out what formalities such a momentous event as an arrest demanded; and return later and round up the criminal.

He did not dally. Carefully putting the gems back where he had found them, he placed the telegram upon the table and went out, softly closing the door behind him.

It flashed into his mind that as the tide was coming in it might be well to borrow Marcia's boat and row back to shore.

This would serve two purposes. He would reach home sooner; and Heath, cut off by the sweep of the channel, would in the meantime be unable to escape.

Never had Elisha rowed as he rowed that day! The dory fairly leaped through the water. Reaching shore, he sprang from it and dragged it up on the sand. Then, trembling with excitement, he set out for home.

He was almost at his gate when to his consternation he saw Eleazer puffing after him.

"You didn't make much of a stop at The Widder's, I see," jeered he.

"No. Had other business," came crisply from Elisha.

"You 'pear to be kinder stirred up, Lish," Eleazer commented. "What's the matter?"

Elisha determined upon a sudden and bold move.

"Say, Eleazer," began he cautiously. "Did you ever see a man arrested?"

"Wal, I dunno as I ever did—not really. I've seen it done, though, in the movies."

"That oughter be up-to-date an' proper. Just how was the proceedin' put through?"

Thoughtfully Eleazer regarded the toes of his boots.

"Wal, near's I can recollect, the policeman went up to the criminal an' grabbin' him by the arm says: 'You villain! I've got you now. Scram!'"

"I s'pose the policeman wore a badge an' carried handcuffs."

"Oh, law, yes. But what's the game? What do you want to know for?"

Furtively Elisha glanced up and down the empty road and after peering over his shoulder, he dropped his voice to a confidential whisper and hissed:

"'Cause I'm goin' to make an arrest—a big arrest! I've tracked down the thief that committed the Long Island burglary. Moreover, I know this very second where the jewels are. I'm goin' to phone the New York police I've got their man," he concluded.

Eleazer's cunning mind worked quickly.

"I don't know, Lish, as I'd do that," he cautioned. "In the first place, you might be mistook in your calculations an' not only get yourself into hot water but make the town a laughin' stock. Furthermore, was you wrong, you might get sued for defamin' the accused's character."

"I ain't wrong. I'm right."

"Wal, even so, I'd move careful," urged his companion. "Most likely there's a reward out for this criminal. Why split it with a host of others? Why don't you an' me divide it? I'll help you land your man, since you're a bit—"

Eleazer, fearing to offend, hesitated. "—a bit out of practice 'bout arrestin'."

"The advice was good. Elisha, shrewd in his dealings, instantly saw the advantages of the plan proposed.

"Wal, mebbe 'twould be better if I didn't let too many ignorant city chaps in on a big thing like this," he conceded pompously. "You an' me know what we're about. I figger we could handle it."

"Sure we could. We can put it through in first-class shape. First you must change your clothes for your Sunday ones. A black frock coat's what you really oughter wear. Then you must pin your sheriff's badge on your chest where it'll show good an' plain. Be sure to bring along your handcuffs, 'cause you're certain to need 'em with an experienced criminal such as this. He'll have a gun an' put up a fight."

Elisha paled and a tremor twitched his lips.

"That needn't concern you none, though. All you'll have to do will be to steal up behind him, put your 'twixt his shoulder-blades an' shout: 'Stick 'em up!'"

"I ain't got no pistol. I ain't fond of fire-arms. In fact, I don't know's I ever shot off a revolver in my life."

"Wal, I have. I've shot dozens of skunks."

"You might lend me yours."

"I s'pose I might. It ain't, though, workin' very well right now. It's kinder rusty. Furthermore, I'm out of ammunition."

"That wouldn't matter. I ain't calculatin' to fire it."

"But you'll have to."

Golden Phantoms

FASCINATING TALES OF LOST MINES

By Editha L. Watson

THE MOUNT PISGAH HOAX

THERE once were three men and a burro, who set out to seek their fortunes. It was in '84 or '85; they were out in the mountains; and it had been snowing.

Suddenly they came across the camp of some prospectors, and it seemed a good idea to stop and get warm and talk a little about the gold that everyone felt sure must underlie all the Rockies.

The prospectors said that they were Leadville men. They had some very nice looking nuggets of gold, and these, they said, came from Mount Pisgah, where they had just been.

Mount Pisgah! The three men knew its general location, although they had never been there, and that very day they determined to hurry on and get to these new diggings before anyone else should hear of them. So they found the direction of the mountain, took a compass to guide them, and set out.

Partly because they were in a hurry and partly because they did not know any easier way to reach Mount Pisgah, they started straight across the country, and the snow fell and turned to slush and fell again, and hills reared in their way, and mountain streams tried to stop them, but they waded and climbed and slid on. A golden phantom danced before them and pointed to Mount Pisgah, and they floundered after her.

At last they reached the place, but to their disgust they found other men ahead of them. Still, there was room for everyone, so they began to make camp and ask questions. The first one, of course, was "where are the diggings?" They proved to be a small prospect hole some ten or fifteen feet deep, in which no gold could be seen. But perhaps, reasoned the three newcomers, if the Leadville men had taken their nuggets from this place there must be more somewhere near. So they began to dig at random.

One man finally found a vein of quartz, and this, he was sure, would bring him a fortune. He dug faithfully, and his little dump grew and began to look as a mine dump should. The others, inspired by the sight of this pile of ore, began offering to buy it, and although someone finally agreed to give $250 for the dump, its owner refused to sell.

At last he found a piece of quartz that he liked, and he and his friends gave it a rough assay, feverishly watching for the gold that they had longed for. To their disappointment, not even a trace of the yellow metal showed, and they realized that they had been fooled.

By this time the camp at Mount Pisgah numbered some 2,000 men. They had all been lured by the idea of finding gold, and now they all were sleuthing about to discover who had been guilty of hoaxing them. It was learned that the two men who dug the original "mine" had salted it, and were even then on their way out of the camp with what riches they had managed to acquire by the sale of claims.

The guilty pair were caught and brought to trial by the angry miners. Only one sentence, it was felt, would be just—that of death by hanging. But even as some of the group went hunting a rope the culprits managed to escape, and this time they got away safely. They had hoped, it was learned, to cause a gold rush and interest capital before they were found out.

So far, this sounds like one of the many minor farces of gold-rush days. But wait—Mount Pisgah now stands sentinel over a booming, rushing mining town where many billions of dollars have been made. In their disgust at being hoaxed, the miners neglected to look about them, and in 1891, only six or seven years later, vast fortunes were found almost at the very foot of the mountain.

For the little creek that flowed past Mount Pisgah, the little creek that no one crossed to see what was on the other side, was — Cripple Creek.

FOUND—ONE GOLD MINE

A MINE was discovered near Ajo, Arizona, in 1916, which had been worked long ago, and was evidently one of the lost mines in search of which so many prospectors spend their entire lives. There was a very large ledge of gold, showing free gold for 3,000 feet. The timbers in the extensive workings had mostly decayed from age. Old ruined houses stood nearby and added to the desolation of the scene.

There were two shafts, one some fifty feet deep which gave onto a cross-cut which had struck a vein of gold ore sixteen feet wide.

The other shaft, supposed to be about forty feet in depth, was inhabited by a swarm of bees and so could not be explored. High grade ore lay on the dump.

At some time or other this mine had been worked at a profit. What caused its abandonment can only be guessed, or whether any of the men who exultingly took out the golden ore lived to leave it—and why they never returned.

Smiles

SAVED!

After the last of the dinner guests had taken their departure, the lady of the house rang for the cook.

"Nora," she began, "I found a rubber glove in the soup tonight."

"Oh, thank you, mum!" was the grateful reply. "I thought I'd lost it."

Fresh From the City

Farmer Uncle—Why are you so frightened by the baby chicks?

"Oh, Nephew—I heard you telling auntie this morning that the baby chicks were learning to scratch."

A Friendly Suggestion

"I want to speak to you as one of the plain people."

"Don't do it," replied Farmer Corn tossel. "You want to realize that times have changed and a prosperous agriculturist looks on himself as somebody rather special."

Broadened Views

"Do you approve of women in politics?"

"Certainly," said Miss Cayenne. "We should be given every opportunity to discuss public affairs instead of private gossip."

Calumet Baking Powder is selling at New Low Prices

"No more 'by-guess-and-by-golly' baking!"

Says Mrs. Owen H. Fleming, of 1235 Judson Ave., Evanston, Ill.

MRS. FLEMING, of Evanston, Ill., was one of the first to hear the grand news: All Calumet prices are lower!

"No need for any woman to take chances with her baking now," says Mrs. Fleming. "Now that Calumet's selling for the lowest prices in its history, it means that the very best can be bought at a bargain."

Ask your grocer for Calumet!

A SIMPLE TWIST... and the Easy-Off top lifts off. No spilling, no broken finger-nails!

WHY DOES CALUMET give such astonishing "baking luck"? Why is Calumet different from other baking powders? Because Calumet combines two distinct leavening actions. A quick one for the mixing bowl. A slower one for the oven... And Calumet's famous double action is so perfectly balanced and controlled that it produces perfect leavening—every time.

Now! Big New 10¢ Can... Calumet, the Double-Acting Baking Powder, comes in two convenient sizes. The new-size can is yours for a dime... the regular price of the Full-Pound Can is now only 25¢.

Home Owner Answered

antee of what bondholders will do is simply the proposition that they can either take what is offered to them or go without anything. Here is a case where a quarter of a loaf is assuredly better than none. Your correspondent should know that when these properties go off the tax rolls, that is, when they revert to the state, the tax and assessment delinquencies written against them must be paid before the property can be redeemed. The bondholder, therefore, cannot hope to buy the property to save even a fraction of his investment. More than this, he cannot foreclose on the entire district. In other words the Matton Act has been just as bad for the bondholder as it has been for the property owner—and it has been just as bad for the taxpayer outside the distressed districts as for those in the districts and those who bought the bonds.

As proof of what I must call the insincerity of your correspondent, let me quote the following paragraph from his letter.

"It has been called to my attention that our County Assessor, James Hervey Johnson, who has been against all bonds, is for these bonds. There is one thing that James Hervey Johnson wouldn't be for any bonds unless he was going to benefit personally by the passing of the bonds. I don't know whether the voters of San Diego county know or not, but practically all of Johnson's and his families' real estate lie in Pacific Beach, several hundred lots altogether, just think what it would mean to him if we other taxpayers assumed the Mattoon bonds in the district where his property is located. Perhaps that is the reason he is for the bonds."

Mr. Johnson has sent you a statement in answer to the foregoing for publication by itself. Here is that answer:

Editor's Note: See Johnson's letter elsewhere in this issue.

And that's that!

Skipping now an inept reference to P. F. O'Rourke, let me refer to your correspondent's final paragraph. "But I can't see the Mattoon settlement bonds. Maybe if I had some property in one of the districts or if I owned some Mattoon bonds, it would be different."

Assuming that your correspondent actually is a home owner, then he is a tax payer. Now, if as a tax payer he will sit back quietly and let this thought seep thru his consciousness he will do himself the favor that the bond issue of October 29 will do for all taxpayers outside of distressed and Mattoon Act districts—and this is the thought: his taxes on his Ocean Beach home are 7 percent higher than they should be because of delinquency in Mattoon Act districts, and within a short time his tax bill will be 10 percent higher. Just as sure as little apples grow on trees the Mattoon Act will boost the taxes on his home for probably the rest of his life because of the inescapable fact that the delinquency of one taxpayer is the burden of another.

The great object in the elimination of the Mattoon Act from this county is the general lowering of taxes. If "Ocean Beach Home Owner" wants to pay the taxes of somebody else he is unique among all the 120 million people of the United States. He is probably unique among all the generations of men since Adam was a brood of a boy. It is a cinch that the very thought of tax reduction here so long as the Mattoon Act is in effect is absurd. The smaller the number of taxpayers, the higher go the taxes. Almost all of the 33,000 pieces of property in distressed Mattoon Act districts are delinquent, and eventually and inevitably the total will be delinquent.

Now, the taking of these properties off the tax rolls will not decrease the cost of government in this county one cent. It will simply narrow and pile up the load for solvent taxpayers. The avoiding of this eventualities is the reason behind the bond issue of October 29—a bond issue for which "Ocean Beach Home Owner" should certainly vote.

Yours very truly,
S. R. Nelson,
